Nifty Spot Chart

Technical Outlook

Following strong Asian markets on Monday, Nifty index also started the week on firm note at 10723 and from there it made surge till 10811 and thereafter it remained in a sideways range and finally settled at 10763 with 1.47% gains. On technical front, Index surpassed the swing low resistance of 10635 and has triggered further bullishness in the counter for upside levels of 10850 then 11000. Ahead, the above mentioned 10635 will act as immediate support and below that next level is placed at 10335 mark. This morning Asian peers are trading on a mixed note and the SGX Nifty is indicating side ways to slight weak opening of domestic indices which is down by 22 points. Although the overall trend still remains firm we might see some profit booking coming up at higher levels and may pull down the Index towards supports of 10635 levels.

Technical Outlook

After opening on strong note at 22270 on Monday Nifty Bank Index once gain moved into sideway range after that and during mid- session it made high of 22399 and soon lost some gains by the end and finally ended at 22198 mark with 1.59% gains. Index has been continuously failing to show follow up buying, indicates profit booking at higher levels. However, Index sustain above previous swing high of 21800 suggests a positive trend and thus going forward we could see Index heading towards previous high of 22480 then 22955 of 100% Fibonacci extension levels. The momentum indicators RSI (14) and stochastic oscillator are on the positive note, signifying bullish strength. On overall the trend is likely to remain positive in Bank index as long as it holds above 21800 mark.
