Market View from the Technical & Derivatives Research Desk

Nifty

The benchmark NIFTY observed profit booking at higher levels and failed to sustain above its key level of 19850/19875 due to lack of buying interest at higher levels. Technically the index closed with formation of bearish candle on daily chart indicating consolidation in the market. On the higher side the immediate resistance will be at 19850-875 levels. Above 19875 can test at 19970/20050 levels. On the downside the NIFTY has support at 19750/19700 levels. Breakdown of 19665 would invite further selling pressure and then we could see NIFTY testing at 19550 levels. The overall short-term trend on NIFTY Index is likely to remain consolidation with upward bias and traders are advised to go for fresh buy if NIFTY trades above 19875 -900 levels.

Bank Nifty

After gap up opening, the banking index traded in a tight range on Thursday and closed with positive kind of candlestick pattern on daily chart suggesting consolidation may continue. On the higher side, the resistance will be at 43690/43790 levels. Sustaining above 43790 can move towards 43870-970 levels. On the downside the support will be at 43450/43230 levels. If bank nifty breaks below 43230-43030 then we can expect next round of selling pressure. Keep an eye on global markets which will weigh on domestic market sentiments.
